RUN OF SHOW

The Creative Heroine Experience, a celebration of the female creative voice and an honoring of the woman inside all of us who moves from problem to solution (soul-ution) in order to express to the world who she really is welcomes the following creators to support you in making 2018 your immersive journey to your next big idea through the integration of your multiple passions, more full creativity and spirituality.

Welcome to a place where following your big “crazy” ideas is commonplace. May you feel reminded that it’s through these ideas or sparks that, as a collective, we improve and evolve, not just our industries, but ourselves, society and, ultimately, the world.

Welcome home, Creative Heroine and enjoy the experience...

THE CREATIVE HEROINE’S EXPERIENCE

Michelle Ghilotti, a yogi in business and in life, was named one of the nation's top creatives in ORIGIN Magazine and has been quoted by publications such as Forbes. She's the creator of Brand to Success, Creative Heroine, High Touch LIVE, CEO Changemaker, the Greater Good Party and Mom to Mogul. Having worked with brands like Nike, Hewlett-Packard and Starbucks, she is a Brand Activator and Success Coach, as well as a writer, speaker, social entrepreneur and modern adventurist mom. She is the owner of Michelle Ghilotti International: a branding, coaching and empowerment agency and has been quoted in and written stories for nationally-published books such as It's a Chick Thing, Tiny Buddha's Guide to Loving Yourself, I Love Mondays and The Girl's Book of Success. She has also appeared on stations such as KTVU and the Lifetime Channel for her work. Michelle activates and supports socially-active entrepreneurial women (or those aspiring to be) to make a tangible difference in the world through businesses-turned-movements while also focusing on a more unapologetic self expression. She supports clients to integrate their more full roster of talents, multiple passions, values, creativity and spirituality into powerful brands that make others feel like they've known you forever. She believes the soul-ution to engaging people is ensuring that you, yourself, are engaged. Having lived in a few countries since 2002, Michelle considers herself a serial expat, however, she currently lives in sunny Los Angeles with her husband, Star Wars-obsessed son and pup named Holland (one of the places she has had the pleasure of living). You may learn more about her and her work at www.michelleghilotti.com.

Helen Vonderheide is an advanced Akashic Records teacher and practitioner. "We all have dreams, for me, my dream had always been to work in Film and TV as a producer. As time went on, I felt like my goals were only inches away from success and I was doing everything right. It was a gut-wrenching blow when the project I was working on, despite my best intentions, fell apart and my life with it. I didn't know what to do, but I did know I needed clarity, and direction to continue moving forward. I took it one day at a time and ended up on a path to find my way out of the darkness - that path led me straight to Akashic Records. When I discovered the Records a huge weight had been lifted off my shoulders. Through this insight, I revealed more wisdom into how to find true peace and happiness in the journey, and above all else trust myself more. ## FINDING YOUR VOICE, CREATING YOUR TRUTH

Beginning with pencil and paper, Paige Bradley took her art seriously at the age of nine. Born in California in 1974, she was educated at Pennsylvania Academy of Art and Pepperdine University in Malibu, California and Florence, Italy. As an artist, a businesswoman and a happily married mother of two, life is busy and abundant. As one of the leading figurative sculptors of our generation, Paige explores the human body as the vehicle to communicate today's struggles, isolations, limitations and brokenness. Her work captures the light of the spirit and the power of the body while capturing a beautiful mortality that is both fragile and fierce. Listed several times as having create the world's most intriguing and creative works of art, people are profoundly connected to the imagery of Paige's sculptures. Paige's studio is now located in Stamford, Connecticut. Over the last twenty years she has held sculpture studios in London, California, and New York. She has worked with the same foundry since she was 17, where she often does her own patinas and detail work. Paige's collectors know her as prolific and as a perfectionist, who creates work that speaks to today's sensibilities and will also be enjoyed for generations to come. You may learn more about her and her work at www.paigebradley.com.
